- I. Tom is reading about what “Free the Children” has done in some poor villages in China. Read the article below. Circle the best answers for the multiple choice questions and answer other questions in COMPLETE SENTENCES. (12% @ 2%)

Adopt a Village in China

“Free the Children” began working in China’s countryside areas in 2002 after a terrible explosion in a firework factory which killed 38 children between the ages of 8 and 11. This kind of horrible explosion is a common problem in China, where almost half of the people live on less than $15 a day.

Through ‘Adopt a Village in China’, we build schools and replace schools that are in poor condition or lack basic facilities like roofs and windows. Water and hygiene projects provide these countryside schools with clean water and toilets, which is major improvement in children’s health in a region where most people do not have access to these facilities.

Income plans include providing families with money and other farming support so parents can afford to send their kids to school. The healthcare work also provides lunch programmes and health education — a major benefit in an area where skin diseases and childhood blindness are found all over the countryside areas.

1. When did 'Free the Children' begin working in China's countryside areas?

2. What accident in China that made "Free the Children" start working there?

3. What is the life of people living in the countryside areas in China like?

4. What are the projects being carried out by "Free the Children" in the countryside areas in China?
 - A. Water and Hygiene projects
 - B. Income plans
 - C. Healthcare work
 - D. All of the above
5. Find a word in the article which means 'Children'. _____
6. Skin diseases and childhood blindness are:
